This year we celebrate 20 years of the Impact Hub Network: from one community in 2005 to a global movement of 120+ locations and 500,000 Impact Makers today.

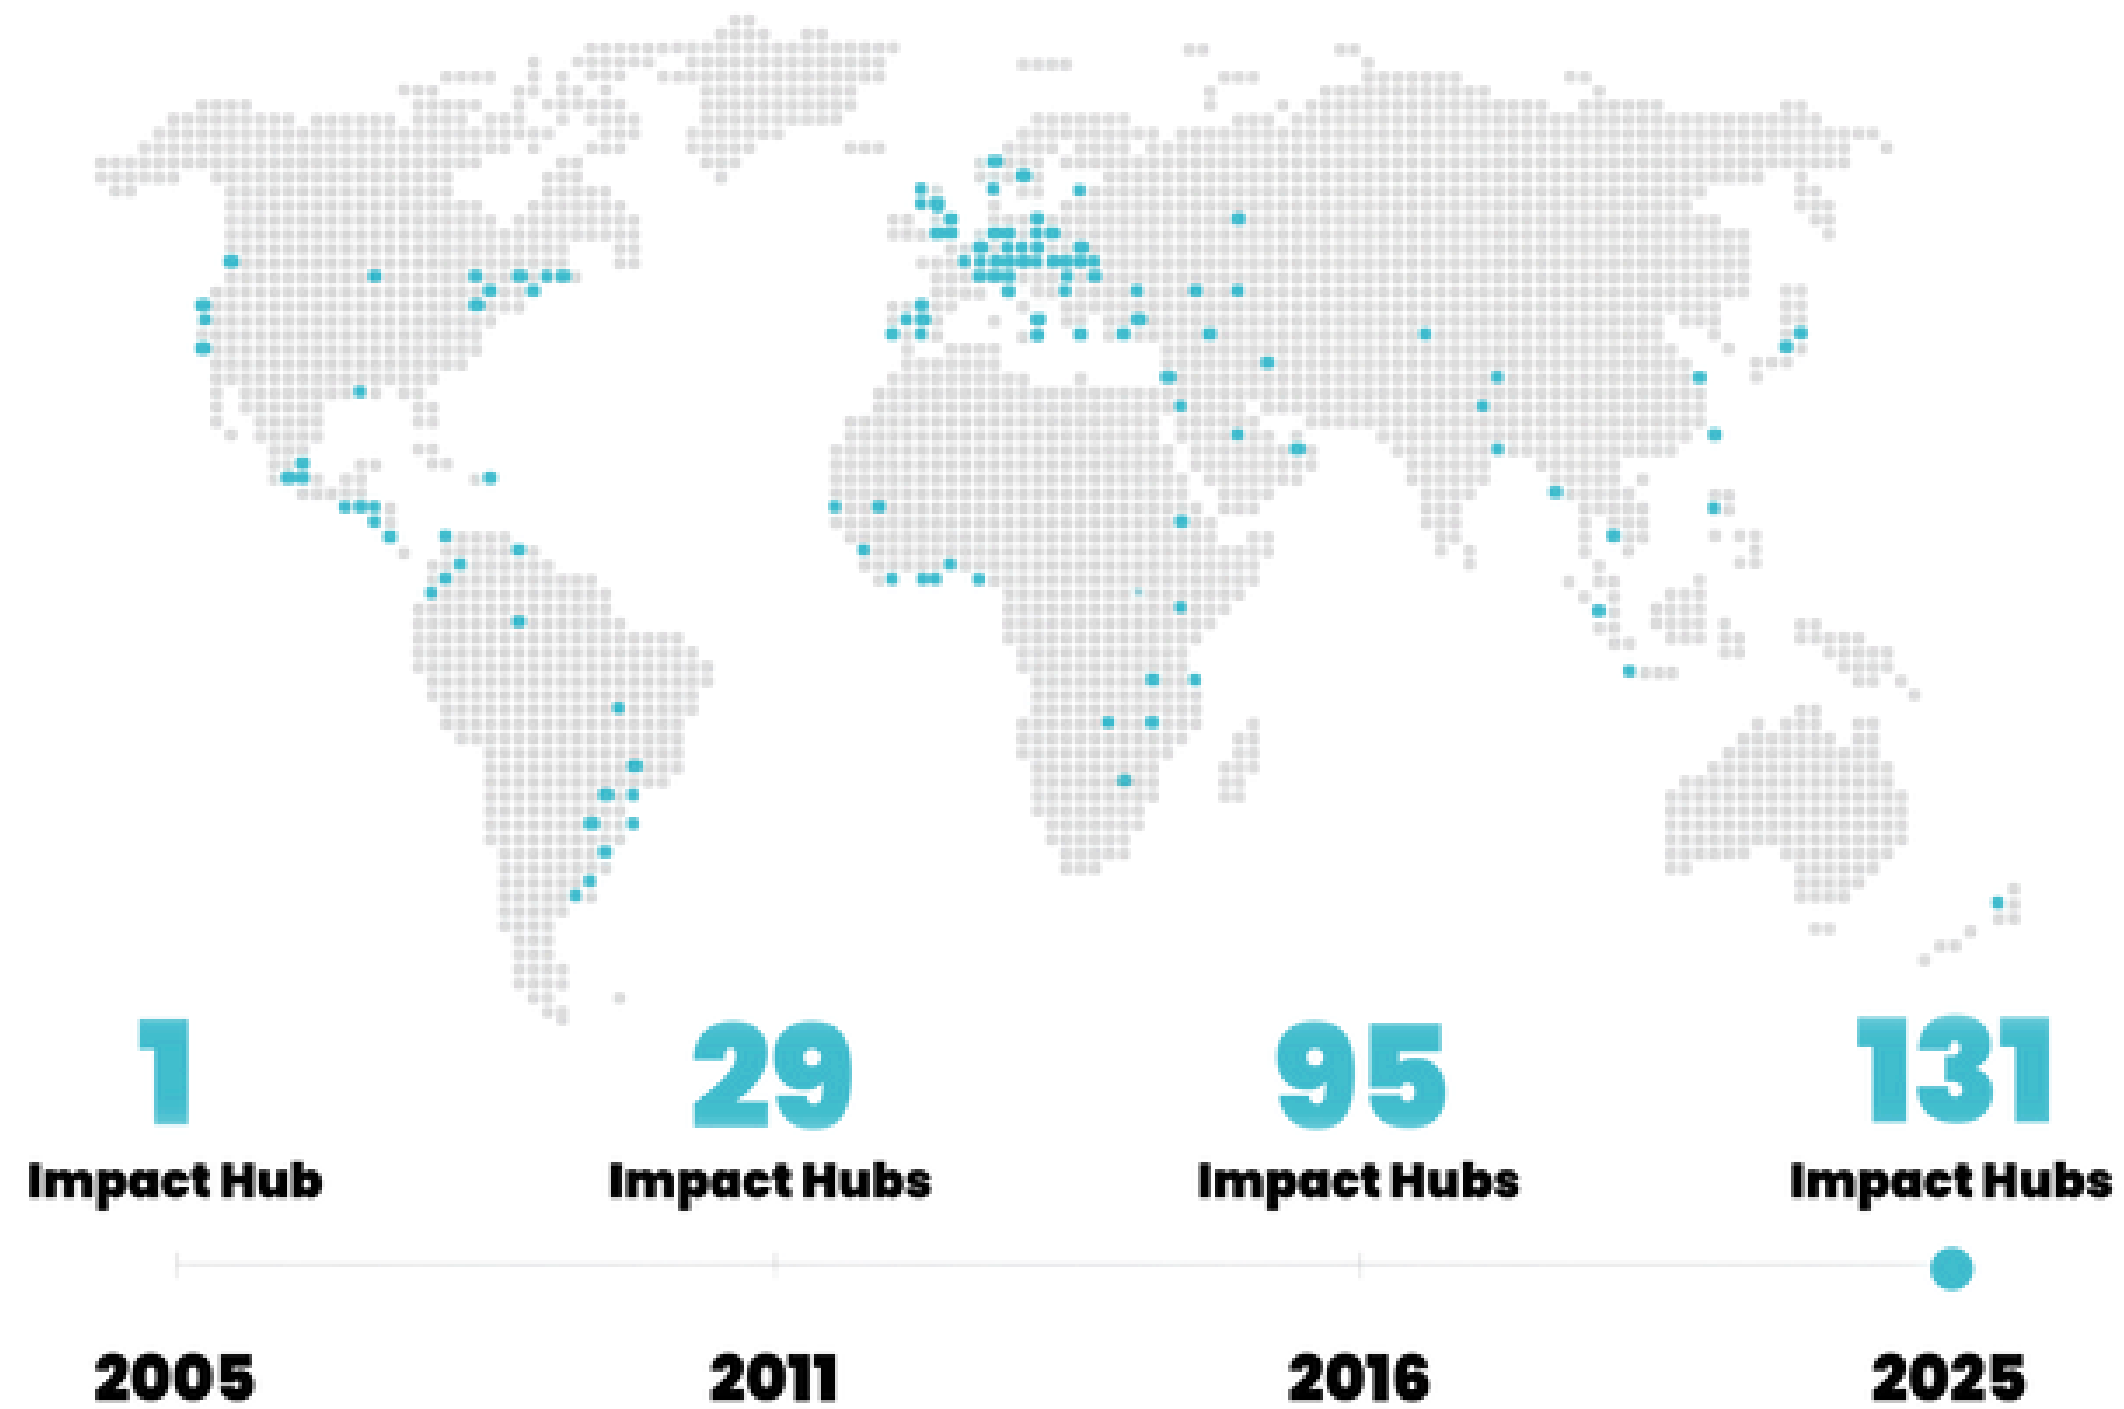

Our anniversary comes at a crucial moment. From climate breakdown to deepening inequalities, global challenges are intensifying and the need for innovation has never been greater.

Impact entrepreneurship offers pathways forward- creating solutions where others see barriers. By working with companies on ESG, with public institutions on social innovation, and with entrepreneurs on locally rooted solutions, we demonstrate how co-creation delivers lasting change.

This report looks back on 2024-2025: our global, local, and translocal programmes, our collective impact, and the steps we are taking toward regenerative futures. It is a record of progress, and an invitation to join us in shaping what comes next.

Collaboration paths for impact

Our paths to impact show how we respond to a world of rising challenges with concrete change. They highlight where we focus our energy: working with companies, public institutions, entrepreneurs, and our global Network.

Each path is proof that collaboration is the only way to move forward- embedding innovation into the way we work and govern. In the following pages, you'll find how these routes come to life, driving impact locally, globally, and across our communities.

Companies

Supporting businesses to become leaders of sustainable growth

Empowering companies to turn global challenges into business value through impact-focused innovation.

Companies today face rising pressure to meet ESG, equity, and resilience goals while staying competitive. Impact Hub partners with corporations to turn these challenges into growth opportunities. Through open innovation, sustainable procurement, and value chain transformation, we help businesses build resilience, compliance, and long-term value.

By empowering local communities, we also connect corporate purpose with authentic social impact. The result: measurable outcomes for people, planet, and business performance.

Public sector

Put social innovation at the heart of public action

Equip public institutions to solve complex challenges collaboratively

The Public Sector is facing interconnected crises that demand a collaborative multistakeholder approach. Impact Hub works with public institutions at various levels – local, regional, national and multilateral – to help formulate policies, build institutional capacity, and pilot impact-driven solutions.

Through ecosystem building, open innovation, and real-world validation, we turn public ambition into systemic change, ensuring institutions can lead with inclusivity and resilience.

Roots of Circularity Nepal

Roots of Circularity Nepal is a four-year initiative to ignite a systemic shift in Nepali citizens, enterprises, and policies toward the adoption and integration of circular economy principles. The programme is being implemented across Bagmati and Lumbini Provinces, working with local stakeholders to catalyse change across education, enterprise, civil society, and government.

Entrepreneurs

Make place-based Impact Makers lead urgent global change

Equip local changemakers to turn context-driven ideas into impact

Entrepreneurs everywhere hold solutions to the world's toughest challenges, yet many lack the tools, networks, and capital to scale. Impact Hub builds thriving local ecosystems through co-working spaces, startup programmes, and investment readiness support.

By combining local context with global connections, we enable place-based entrepreneurs to grow ventures that address urgent issues, from climate resilience to inclusive economies.
